

Conducting a college search is a daunting task for every family and every potential college student. All students need to think about factors such as the size of the college, its location, and whether or not to live on campus or at home (see Figure 1).

For students with intellectual disability (ID), there are some additional aspects to consider beyond the details you can learn in Think College Search. This resource provides questions, suggested by parents and students who have been through the college search process.

These questions may be answered by closely reviewing the college program websites, attending an Open House, or calling the program director. A great place to identify possible options is Think College Search, a searchable database of college programs on the Think College website. There you will find basic information on over 270 college programs for students with intellectual disability. Learn more about it on page 2.

This guide shares questions about important aspects of the college program, and are offered to help students and families learn as much as they can about program operations so they can make an informed choice about which college is best for them. ADMISSION

Admission requirements and deadlines for these programs vary widely – be sure to note these as you review the program information.

- » How many students apply each year? How many are accepted? How many students are you interviewing?
- » Do you accept out of state students? Do you have any out of state students currently?
- » What are your admission criteria? What testing is required, if any?
- » Are students who are under guardianship accepted?
- » What are the timelines/deadlines for the application process? When will students be notified of your admission decision?
- » What do you suggest admitted students do over the summer to prepare for a successful transition to campus life in the fall?
- » My questions regarding admission:

FEES, TUITION, AND FINANCIAL AID

Look for this icon in College Search to find the programs that offer access to federal student aid.

If college programs become an approved Comprehensive Transition Program (CTP), students have access to federal student aid, even if they don't have a regular high school diploma and are not seeking a degree.

- » What is the total cost to attend your program, per year?
- » Is your program an approved CTP and able to offer access to federal student aid for your students?
- » How do students pay to attend? Do students use vocational rehabilitation funds, community agency funds, personal funds, federal financial aid, scholarships, or other resources?
- » If a student is accepted, when will payment be due? Is there a payment plan available?
- » My questions regarding fees, tuition, and financial aid:

INCLUSION WITH THE CAMPUS COMMUNITY

Although students may enter these programs through an alternate admission process, once on campus they should have a very typical experience.

- » Aside from program faculty and staff, who is your program's biggest advocate on campus?
- » What are some campus activities that your students have participated in? Are Greek life, intramural or club sports, and other student activities open to students in your program? Are there any campus services or activities that students in the program are not allowed to access?
- » How, if at all, is your program included in the university's overall diversity and inclusion efforts?
- » How important is full inclusion to your program?
- » How do you support students to be fully included in college life?
- » Do the students participate in a typical college graduation?
- » Are students in your program considered enrolled students in the university? Do they have alumni benefits when they complete the certificate program?
- » My questions regarding inclusion with the campus community:

ACADEMICS

Participation in typical college courses should be a key element of any inclusive college program.

- » What are the required courses and learning activities (i.e. internships, community service, etc.) that students must do to earn a certificate?
- » How many special or separate classes are there for students with ID? Who teaches the separate classes?
- » How many typical college courses do students take per semester?
- » How much choice do students have in the courses they take each semester?
- » Are students from the program able to take a wide range of typical college courses?
- » What supports does the program provide to the professors of typical college courses that students take?
- » Do students have the option of taking courses for credit?
- » Do students get a transcript?
- » How are accommodations and modifications set-up?
- » My questions regarding academics:

HOUSING

Look for this icon in College Search to find the programs that offer access to student housing.

Even at residential colleges, housing may not yet be available for students in these programs.

- » Where do students live? Is it all in one house or dorm, or all over campus? Are there different arrangements for first year students?
- » How are roommates selected?
- » Can students in the program choose a roommate?
- » Do students with and without disabilities live together?
- » What supports does the program provide students living on-campus?
- » Is support always available? If not, is there a plan for emergencies?
- » How are the Resident Assistants (RAs) and other Residence Life staff trained and supported by the program?
- » Are there special rules for students with ID that do not apply to other students, for example, a curfew?
- » How is safety and security for the students in campus housing balanced with freedom?
- » Are there rules that only apply to students in the program?
- » Do students have access to additional program staff or RAs, or just the Residence Life staff who work with all students living on campus?
- » Is there a summer orientation or other strategy to teach skills needed on campus to be safe?
- » Are students held to the same Code of Conduct as other students on campus?
- » My questions regarding housing:

SUPPORTS

Types of support and hours of availability can vary quite a bit from program to program.

- » What supports are provided to students to help them attend classes, take part in activities, and become more independent?
- » Do you provide peer mentors? How are they trained and supervised?
- » How are students matched with peer mentors and support staff?
- » Can you provide examples of natural supports on campus available to students?
- » Is there always access to support as needed, or are there times of the day/week when students do not have access to support?
- » Are students required to have a support person or mentor with them at all times?
- » My questions regarding support services:

PROGRAM ADMINISTRATION

Knowing what kinds of staff the program employs can help you assess the priorities of the program as well as the level and kinds of support the student can expect.

- » How many full-time and part-time employees are there?
- » What kind of experience and training do the program administrators and staff have?
- » Are program staff employed by the college? If not, who do they work for?
- » What hours are program staff available?
- » Who is the best contact person when family members have questions or concerns?
- » My questions regarding program administration:

COMMUNICATION WITH PARENTS

Colleges must follow the requirements of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), a federal law that protects the privacy of student education records.

- » How do you handle FERPA requirements while communicating important information with families?
- » What role, if any, do the parents have in the development of the student's individualized program and support?
- » Are there any limitations on which college staff parents can communicate with?
- » What communication strategies are used with parents?
- » My questions regarding communicating with families:

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

- » What types of part-time work do students in the program have?
 - » What are the qualifications of the staff working with students on career development?
 - » What supports do you have to help students find a paid job while attending college?
 - » What supports do you have for supporting students to find employment once they graduate?
 - » My questions regarding career development:

Data show that paid work in college leads to better employment outcomes after college.

PROGRAM OUTCOMES

As of 2022, college programs for students with ID are reporting close to 60% employment rate for students upon graduation.

- » What certificate or credential do students earn when they graduate from the program? Has it been approved by your college or university?
 - » What are the graduation rates?
 - » What types of careers have your graduates gone on to?
 - » What are employment rates for your graduates?
 - » Where do your graduates typically live after they graduate?
 - » My questions regarding program outcomes:
